4) Colt M1911MEXICAN M1916 Argentine Modelo 1924: S/N 10,001 to 200,000 = March 1916 to October 1916. S/N 201,001 to 250,000 = January 1923 to Jan. 1924 (Colt 1911 M1916 Argentine Modelo 1924, also marked as EJERCITO ARGENTINO - SISTCOLT CAL 11.25m/mAUT. PISTOL M/1914 on the slide and bottom of gripframe. In original order, slide stamped COLT/SITCO. COLT M.1916&23 on right side of slide.) SYST. COLT pistols made by Argentina under licence from Colt marked on right of slide with EJERCITO ARGENTINO / SIST. COLT CAL 11.25 mm. Model 1924. Other M1916 pistols made in Argentina at Fabrica Militar de Armas Portatiles, Rosario, Argentina, S/N 250,001 to 450,000 was this rifle made at 1917 or 1919? I want to know the serial number if it was made in 1917 since according to my research rifles made in 1917 did not have a safety switch? I am also very interested in a rifle that was produced in 1919. I believe it was the firing pin and safety switch which were the only items with their original serial number still readable. Thanks. I have a link to the pic I want the part number. Please let me know if anyone can help. the serial number is not visible on the rear of this gun its an 8 shot per chambered sawed off.30 cal varmint rifle. This is no Colt it is a Buntline. This gun was shipped to the U.S. as surplus in the late 1980's have never seen a gun like it before. N.B.4.It was not sent as a bunch gun 5 guns but it was discharged out of the crate and for whatever reason the other 49 guns were destroyed (?) it was sold to a civilian when empty and this rifle was one of the empty ones not the lot, in my mind at least

Colt 1911 Manufacture Date Serial Number

At the Firearms Forum, we recommend you do not buy a weapon without a thorough understanding of the basics. It is OK to ask questions. It is not OK to expect answers. The.38 Special revolver is an “interchangeable” ammunition revolver, meaning that any of the many manufacturers of.38 Special ammunition could use a.38 Special frame to make the revolvers. The Colt.38 Special model was made by Remington. The result is that any Colt.38 Special frame could be used in the Remington Model 993. The same is true of many other models of interchangeable ammunition revolvers. You might find additional information about when your gun was manufactured by doing a search on a serial number search site. Many firearms have been manufactured for nearly a century, and were never serialized. Some can be identified by serial number plate and other identifying marks. Have you ever wondered exactly what year your Colt 1911 was manufactured? This year's issue of Collector Guns magazine reveals the manufacture date of Colt 1911 firearms, and includes some information about common 1911 variations. Colt 1911 firearm production dates are stamped on the left side of the receiver, and can be found on the 8th or 9th slot. The receiver will have a "CM" marking or a "C" with a number, as well as a 7 or 8. The Colt 1911 differs from other revolvers in that the cylinder lock and the grip frame are welded together. Also, the "CC" marking is welded directly to the frame, and the 1911 is not stamped with the year of manufacture. The instruction manual for the Colt 1911 discloses the exact manufacturing dates of some parts of the firearm, including the hammer spring, hammer, and firing pin. Serial number plates at the back of some 1911s will list the most recent serial number. Find more information about the Colt 1911, including pictures of early 1911s that may be available on the 1911 Vets website. 5ec8ef588b
